FOREWORD

On behalf of Management and Staff of Rongo University may I take this opportunity to welcome every student who has chosen to join this institution of higher learning. This booklet provides important information to enable students cope with life in the University as they pursue their studies. The rules and regulations are meant to enable every student accomplish academic pursuits besides individual development and fulfillment.

In this edition, attention was given to the contents to incorporate requirements of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010, Universities Act 2012 and subsequent amendments, Rongo University Charter 2016 and Rongo University Statutes. Some of the areas include recognition of the Bill of Rights, promotion of national values, cohesion and integration, entrenchment of integrity in the students leadership. The regulations have been simplified to provide general information and separately outline conduct that may result in disciplinary proceedings.

Students are reminded to read and understand the rules and regulations. It is a requirement that a student should sign a declaration to confirm readiness to abide by rules and regulations before taking the offer to undertake any studies in the institution. It is hoped that by accepting to live harmoniously in the community of scholars, students will attain the standards that are desirable.

Finally, I wish every student a wonderful experience as they go about their academic activities at the University .
